

Imagine!

November
2015

Imagine me in my new home some months from now! No longer in the streets with my wheelbarrow, keeping my eye out for a lost wallet or a lost soul, but somewhere far away.

Soon we three will be installed on the south coast; but I can see that the smallest one in the family might have the biggest adjustment to make! "What do you want?" the usual request comes, as I sit in my kitchen minding my own business. "Oh well, show me", I say resignedly. "Cat food?" No...so I have got it wrong.

"Your tail is in a tangle? Jump up on this stool and I will sort it out".

What am I on about? Communication; in this case between a cat and myself, a cat who has lived from a kitten in the company of people. She has learnt that if she shows us what she wants, eg by going to the right location or makes a unique noise to attract our attention, she gets what she wants.

I am reminded of once when I was working in my front garden and I could sense her near me - definitely near me because she was shouting! I reply "Oh, what do you want now?" Another shout..."Oh burrs in your tail, well you will have to wait". Another shout confirmed my intuition - that cat has no patience! There was laughter over my front hedge, and after composing himself, a gentleman spoke: "I have never heard anyone having a conversation with a cat before". Well you see our cat is very much part of our family. People ask why we are moving. I tell them it is because the cat can't climb the stairs any more!

So where is this monologue going I hear you ask? Well, we all need to listen and pay attention. What our fellow being needs, be it an animal or human, is not always obvious. We need to discern, just as Jesus discerned when he saw into the hearts of those who came to him with their cat-like requests for attention.

Imagine, if you listened, really listened, you might be surprised at the result.

CAPTION COMPETITION

Thank you to all those who sent in suggested captions for this picture of Roy and Alan taken at the back of the church shortly after Roy arrived to take the service one Sunday morning.

They were all so good that we couldn't decide which was the best one, so please let the editors know which is your favourite ...

- 1 Lost for words
- 2 Wife said she'd be changing the sheets yesterday
- 3 Swap you a Prophet for an Epistle
- 4 It must be somewhere in the Apocrypha
- 5 Seek and ye shall find
- 6 Roy praying that it's the right sermon even if it is in the wrong order
- 7 Who's got page 1?
- 8 I could've sworn there was a sermon here somewhere
- 9 Here it is Alan - the ad about the hair replacement tonic I used with great success!
- 10 And finally God, could you send us a new table?

Although this is a Churches Together in Stansted initiative, our church has been fully involved in setting it up. The first Messy Church exceeded all expectations, with 89 people attending, representing 27 families, over a third of whom have no known church connection - see photos on page 4. Amazingly there was enough food! Some of the people attending were known to us through The Place on the Hill. The next two dates are 6th December and 31st January. Offers of food would be gratefully received; nearer the time Carol will be asking people, and there will be a sign-up sheet available after church. More helpers are needed on the day – please contact Marion if you can help with craft activities or food.
